Gen. George A. Sheridan is making a stay in New York city on his way to Boston, where he will lecture and open the "Star" course. He laughingly relates the manner in which he did violence to Rutherford B. Hayes's feelings as a non-alcoholic advocate. Sheridan preceded Fred Douglas as recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia. Before he was appointed to that position an enemy brought word one day to Mr. Hayes that he had been uproariously convivial in the Ebbitt house the previous evening. Mr. Hayes sent for Sheridan and sternly and in plain language said: "I am told, sir, that you were drunk in the Ebbitt house last evening." Without moving a muscle of his face the candidate for recorder met this question with the query: Mr. President, are you acquainted with the size of the rotunda in the Ebbitt house?" "Yes, sir; what of that?" said

Mr. Hayes.

"Well, sir," said Sheridan, "last evening it was not half big enough for me." Lucy's husband tried to look very severe, but failed, and in a burst of laughter, he said: "You are the first man to make a frank acknowledgement to me when charged with such an accusation." He got his appointment.

Sheridan was a congressman from Patronize Home Industry! Louisiana for just one hour, but for that brief service he received $10,000. A committee on contest reported in his favor just sixty pired and he was immediately sworn in, which entitled him to two years' pay.

sore on my cheek, and the doctors pronounced It cancer. I have tried a number of physicians, but without receiving any permanent benefit. Among the number were one or two specialists. The medicine they applied was like fire to the sore, causing intense pain. I saw a statement in the papers telling what S. S. S. had done for others similarly afflicted. I procured some at once. Before I had used the second bottle the neighbors could notice that my cancer was healing up. My general health had been bad for two or three years-I had a hacking cough and spit blood continually. I had a severe pain in my breast. After taking six bottles of S. S. S. my cough left me and I grew stouter than I had been for several years. My cancer has healed over all but a little spot about the size of a half dime, and it is rapidly disappearing. I would advice every one with cancer to give S. S. S. a fair trial.
